SECRETSHORT OUTLINE OF THE POLISH PEASANT POLITICAL MOVEMENT

25X1

In the period between 1918 and 1931 there were several peasant parties in existence in Poland. Three of them were parties with an already established political tradition in Poland. Others were short-lived political organizations with small membership. Among those were also camouflaged Communist groups. Those groups were finally liquidated in 1931.

March 15, 1931.

Polish peasant parties united. On that day, the three Polish peasant parties, the only bona fide peasant political organizations then in existence, merged into a single political parties. They were:

1. POLISH PEASANT PARTY "PIAST" / Polskie Stronnictwo Ludowe "Piast" /

2. POLISH PEASANT PARTY "LIBERATION" / Polskie Stronnictwo Ludowe "Wyzwolenie" /

3. PEASANT PARTY / Stronnictwo Chłopskie /

The first one was considered, by the Polish political standards a party which represented middle of the road elements in the Polish peasant movement, though some left-wing historians of the peasant movement maintained that

WAR-TIME ACTIVITIES

In the part of Poland occupied by Germans the Peasant Party continued its political activities in the underground movement, in cooperation with other pre-war political parties. It had also its own armed underground force, the 25X
"so-called PEASANT BATTALIONS".

25X1

Stanisław MIKOŁAJCZYK

KAJCZYK, who had been elected at the last pre-war party congress in 1938 as an alternate deputy chairman of the Supreme Executive Committee, became the Polish prime minister in exile after PIKORSKI's death.

At the same time various left-wingers of the Peasant Party, often acting as Communist agents, and Communists themselves, organized the so-called WOLA LUDU underground political organization. In 1944, when the so-called LUBLIN COMMITTEE was established in that city, the WOLA LUDU members stated that they were representing the pre-war Peasant Party. With the help of the Communist press and propaganda they succeeded in confusing many rank and file members of the pre-war Peasant Party who joined the new organization. When MIKOŁAJCZYK returned to Poland he learnt that a new Peasant Party, "a faked Peasant Party", as he called it, was already a smoothly working organization run by Communist agents and their naive helpers.

ՕՐԻՆԱԿ

June 27, 1945.

Stanisław MIKOŁAJCZYK arrived in Warsaw to become a deputy prime minister in the Provisional Government of National Unity.

September 1945.

The leadership of the legitimate pre-war Polish Peasant Party met in Kraków. Wincenty WITÓW, the party chairman and Stanisław MIKOŁAJCZYK delivered the two major speeches. Because the Communist agents stole the party name, the party decided to adopt a new name: POLISH PEASANT PARTY / POLSKIE STRONNICTWO LUDOWE / PL in short / . Since then there were two peasant parties in Poland: STRONNICTWO LUDOWE / PL in short / and POLSKIE STRONNICTWO LUDOWE / PL in short / . Wincenty WITÓW continued as the PL head.

October 31, 1945.

Died Wincenty WITÓW, the head of the Polish Peasant Party, the great leader of the Polish peasant movement.

January 19, 1946.

The first post-war Congress / legitimate / of the Polish Peasant Party met in Warsaw.

SECRET

The leadership of the Polish Peasant Party had already succeeded in opening the eyes of many people confused by Communists agents. At the opening of the party Congress the Polish Peasant Party had already 600,000 members. Stanisław MIKOŁAJCZYK was elected unanimously by the PPL Congress to succeed Wincenty WITOWSKI.

January-December 1946. The Polish Peasant Party harassed by Communists and their agents in the peasant movement.

November 1946.

A group of PPL members blackmailed by Communists created a "splinter party called: Polish Peasant Party- New Liberation / Polskie Stronnictwo Ludowe-Nowe Wyzwolenie/. The new group headed by Bronisław DRZEWIECKI and Tadeusz REK was created to sabotage the MIKOŁAJCZYK's party and to spread confusion before the oncoming EJM election.

January 19, 1947.

Communists falsified the EJM elections. MIKOŁAJCZYK's PPL party received only 28 seats in the first post-war parliament. The faked Peasant Party received 107 seats and the "splinter group PPL NOWE WYZWOLENIE 7 seats.

October 8, 1947.

The Supreme Executive Committee met in Warsaw discussing the future of the Polish Peasant Party. The Committee recognized the fact that the Polish Peasant Party could no longer operate in Poland as a political party. The Committee also decided that the party's members in PEJM would continue as deputies in order to use the Pejm forum for protests against Communist harassment.

October 21, 1947.

Stanislaw MIKOŁAJCZYK escaped from Poland.

November 29, 1949.

The merging congress of the Polish Peasant Party / PPL / and the Peasant Party / PL /. The PPL party, disorganized and demoralized after MIKOŁAJCZYK's escape, was swallowed by the Communist sponsored Peasant Party. The new party called itself the UNITED PEASANT PARTY / ZL ZJEDNOCZONE WIRONNICTWO LUDOWE / Wladyslaw KOWALSKI, a trained Communist agent, became the new party chairman.

SECRETUNITED PEASANT PARTY ORGANIZATION

The new ZSL party adopted the organization of the pre-war Polish Peasant Party in 1949 which meant the party Congress, Supreme Council and Supreme Executive Committee continued as the party highest authorities. This was done in order to make the party organization look as a continuation of the best traditions of the Peasant Party. However, at the same time gradual changes have been introduced to align the ZSL organization with that of PZPR. The word "Executive" from the SUPREME EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE name has been struck out and now the ZSL party has only its SUPREME COMMITTEE / NACZELNY KOMITET which resembles very much the CENTRAL COMMITTEE of PZPR. In 1938 at the last pre-war Peasant Party Congress elected only 16 members of the Supreme Executive Committee. The present SUPREME COMMITTEE strikingly resembles the PZPR CENTRAL COMMITTEE, as far as the number of members is concerned.

SECRET*SUPREME COMMITTEE ZSL

On October 20, 1956 the IV Plenary Meeting of the SUPREME COMMITTEE took place in Warsaw. The ZSL leaders jumped fast on the GOMULKA wagon and began their own destalinization. The Communist agent and head of the Supreme Committee, Wladyslaw KOWALSKI was forced to resign. The Committee elected then the following PRESIDIUM of the SUPREME COMMITTEE:

1. IGNAR, Stefan	Chairman of the Committee
2. JUSZKIEWICZ, Aleksander	Deputy Chairman
3. OZGA-MICHALSKI, JOZEF	Deputy Chairman
4. WYCECH, Czeslaw	Deputy Chairman

11. GARSTECKI, Zygmunt	Member
12. PODREWORNY, Boleslaw	Member
13. SCHAYER, Waclaw	Member
14. SZKOP, Jan	Member

On December 17, 1956 another Plenary Meeting of the Supreme Committee ( V ) took place in Warsaw. The Committee accepted resignations of six members and fired three members. At the same time the Committee elected 32 new members and 6 alternates, mostly people who had been purged during the Stalin era. The available Polish press did not print those new names in the Supreme Committee. It printed, however, the names of the new PRESIDIUM of the SUPREME COMMITTEE as follows:
